Parent Resources

Welcome to the Wood-Ridge School District Gifted and Talented Program! The following websites are wonderful resources to utilize throughout the school year and beyond. We look forward to working with and getting to know you and your child. Happy exploring!

www.nagc.org- National Association for Gifted Child invests resources to train teachers, encourage parents, and educate administrators and policymakers on how to develop and support the unique needs of gifted children.

www.njagc.com - The official state affiliate to the National Association for Gifted Children. This site focuses on gifted children and the ways in which you can help advocate for their needs. Site includes information about the identification process, social and emotional development, and how to best support the needs of a gifted child. Parents can communicate with the gifted community by participating in the forums (<http://www.njagc.org/forums>) where they can post questions and share experiences/anecdotes.

www.gifted.uconn.edu – Home to the Neag Center for Gifted Education and Talent Development. This site helps parents to identify giftedness, identify effective gifted programs and how best to collaborate with educators to support gifted students.

www.uniquelygifted.org - A collection of resources for families with gifted and special needs children and professionals who work with them. Site includes professional articles, personal experiences from parents and children as well as curriculum resources.

www.cty.jhu.edu – The Johns Hopkins Center for Talented Youth identifies and develops the talents of the most advanced K-12 learners worldwide. As part of Johns Hopkins University, CTY helps fulfill the university's mission of preparing students to make significant future contributions to our world.

www.hoagiesgifted.org - Resource guide for the education of gifted children with links to many gifted education resources available on the Internet.

www.gifted-children.com - On-line parents' newsletter with networking and information dedicated to making a difference in the education of children with special talents and abilities.
